

Gerhard Mangott

Professional Experience

University Professor of Political Science at the Department of Political Science at the University of Innsbruck since October 2015. Specialization on International Relations and Security in the Post-Soviet region.

Associate Professor of Political Science at the Department of Political Science at the University of Innsbruck March 2003-September 2015

July 2000-February 2003 Assistant Professor at the Department of Political Science at the University of Innsbruck

Scientific Adviser on Post-Soviet Affairs at the Austrian Institute for International Affairs (OIIP) in Vienna February 2009-2015

October 1991–June 2008 Permanent and Senior Research Fellow on Eastern Europe and the former USSR at the Austrian Institute for International Affairs (OIIP) in Vienna

Lecturer at the Diplomatic Academy in Vienna since 1995

Lecturer at the University of Applied Sciences in Vienna since 2004

Studies

Studies in Political Science, History and Slavonics at the Universities of Innsbruck and Salzburg with a special focus on Comparative Political Science (political systems of Eastern Europe and the USSR) and International Relations.

Main Research Areas:

Russian Domestic and Foreign Policy

Strategic Arms Control and Non-Proliferation, Nuclear (weapons) programmes in North Korea (DPRK), Iran and Libya

US Foreign Policy

EU Energy Security in the gas sector

Reviewer for the 'Economic and Social Research Council' (ERSC), the 'Volkswagenstiftung', the 'Schweizerische Nationalfonds zur Förderung der Wissenschaftlichen Forschung', the 'Jubiläumsfonds' of the Austrian National Bank (OenB), the journals 'Geopolitics' and 'Österreichische Zeitschrift für Politikwissenschaft' (Austrian Journal on Political Science).

Frequent political consulting and briefings in Russian and international affairs for federal politicians and parties, private companies and banks. Numerous interviews with national and international electronic and print media.